7-STEP PROCESS

Hardwood Floor Refinishing

The Fastest, Dust-Free Way to Make Your Floors Look Like New

1 Homeowner Preparation

Any new project begins with a free, in-home design consultation. We can help you decide on wood type, stain color, plank width, finish and more. After the consultation, the room must be prepped. This requires removal by the homeowner of the furniture, drapery, and anything hanging on the walls. We ask that you do this to minimize the risk of any of your furnishings getting damaged during the refinishing process.

2 Demolition

The second step is demolition. If you are refinishing floors that were previously covered with carpet, we may need to tear up the carpet to expose the floor. If there is damage to the existing floor, we may need to remove and replace the damaged planks.

3 Sub-Floor Preparation

We walk the floor to find squeaks, low spots, and uneven seams. Then we fix them by tightening from below and sanding planks to an even plane.

4 Dustless Sanding

The Bona Atomic Dust Containment System® extracts the dust into a sealed tube which is then carried to our trailer outside.

- No dust in your ductwork
- No dust to ruin a perfect finish
- Environmentally friendly

5 Repair Gouges and Holes

Once the floors are sanded, we examine them closely to find and fix any additional blemishes. We fill any cracks, gouges or nail holes that we find leftover.

6 Custom Hardwood Staining

After the dustless sanding process, we apply the stain to your floor. We can create any color you want with our custom color process. We test it on your floor so you can see it, and once we receive your approval, we will move forward with the staining process.

7 Three-Coat Finish

After the stain is dry, we finish the floor with three coats of our environmentally safe, durable and fast-drying top coat to protect your hardwood floor from normal wear and tear. You can choose finishes from low luster to high gloss. Additionally, we screen, buff, and vacuum between refinishing coats for the absolute best results possible.

This graphic reflects all of the steps of our refinishing process, however, every project is custom and some steps may be added or subtracted as necessary.
